OCTOBER REPORT

October 15\textsuperscript{th}, 2002
GPSF 2002-2003

TABLE OF CONTENTS

I. President’s Message

II. On-Campus Initiatives
a. ACT
b. Centennial Anniversary of the Graduate School
c. Childcare
d. Future Faculty Program
e. General Alumni Association
f. Graduate Attorney General, Jennifer Burgoon
g. Graduate Student Center
h. Graduate Student Financial Aid
i. International Student Support
j. LGBTQ Issues
k. Socials
l. Student and Academic Services Building
m. Student Affairs Webpages
n. Teaching Assistant Task Force

III. External Advocacy
a. Chapel Hill Town Council
b. NC Legislature

IV. Internal Initiatives
a. GPSF Senate, Internal Vice President Dan Herman
b. GPSF External Vice President Stephanie Schmitt
c. GPSF Treasurer Report, Erin Peterson
d. GPSF Cabinet
Mission Statement: The Graduate & Professional Student Federation in 2002-2003 advocates for improved resources for graduate and professional students; promotes active participation in university, local, state, national, and international issues; and collaborates with university administration faculty, staff, and undergraduate students to create policies that reflect the interests of all graduate and professional students.

TABLE OF APPENDICES

Appendix A: GPSF Executive Officers, 2002-2003

Appendix B: GPSF Cabinet, 2002-2003

Appendix C: Letters to NC Conference Committee members regarding Tuition Remission budget cuts

Appendix D: DTH Editorial on Tuition Remission cuts (August 22, 2002)

Appendix E: DTH article about Tuition Remission cuts (August 20, 2002)

Appendix F: Daum/Page Editorial regarding Budget cuts to UNC by the NC Legislature (September 9, 2002)

Appendix G: Letter to members of Teaching Assistant Task Force outlining the purpose of the committee and Official charge to the committee

Appendix H: DTH article about TA Task Force (September 17, 2002)

Appendix I: DTH article about the Future Faculty Program (August 21, 2002)

Appendix J: Evaluations of the Future Faculty Program by participants

Appendix K: Statement of Purpose for the Advisory Committee on Transportation (ACT)

Appendix L: DTH article on separate graduate hooding ceremony at commencement (October 1, 2002)
Appendix M: DTH article on GPSF resolution to support the Provost’s Report on the LGBTQ campus climate (October 3, 2002)

Appendix N: DTH article about Graduate Student Center proposal (September 16, 2002)

Appendix O: Letter from GPSF to Town Council members regarding off-campus housing ordinances

Appendix P: GPSF Resolution 02-03: Supporting Academic Freedom at UNC-Chapel Hill

Appendix Q: GPSF Resolution 02-02: Supporting the Findings of the “Provost’s Planning Committee on LGBTQ-identified Climate at UNC-Chapel Hill
I. President’s Message

Branson Page
GPSF President

Tuesday, October 15th, 2002

Dear Fellow Tar Heels,

The 2002-2003 administration of the Graduate & Professional Student Federation has spent the last six months working hard to address a variety of issues important to graduate and professional students at Carolina. This report is a summary of our activities thus far. I hope you will take a moment to look over it and decide for yourself if there exist other issues that you would have us spend time on. We have done our best to be open and responsive as issues arise, and I sincerely believe that we have been quite successful in addressing all matters proactively.

On a personal note, it has been an honor and a pleasure to serve the student body at Carolina in my position as GPSF President. However, I have not done this alone. I want to thank the members of the GPSF Executive Committee for their dedication, hard work, and commitment to making the GPSF as strong an organization as possible. I am extremely blessed to be surrounded by such capable people whose desire to serve Carolina and its students is evident in everything they do. In addition, I want to thank the sixteen members of the GPSF Cabinet for being leaders on this campus in representing issues important to them. I believe this is the strongest cabinet the GPSF has seen in many years, and I am excited to witness our future success and achievements.

I look forward to six more months of hard work and accomplishments. Please do not hesitate to contact me (branson@unc.edu) with suggestions or comments on the issues discussed in this report or others you would like the GPSF to concentrate on. Thanks for six great months!

Best regards,

Branson Page
GPSF President, 2002-2003
II. On-Campus Initiatives

A. Advisory Committee on Transportation (ACT)

GPSF Student Services Chair Colin Christian serves on the Advisory Committee on Transportation (ACT), a body that is developing a five-year access plan for the University. The plan will identify challenges to parking and transit needs on campus caused by the development plan and offer solutions for addressing those challenges. Colin participated in interviewing and selecting the team of consultants hired to help develop the plan. ACT meets on a regular basis to work with the consultants and discuss components of the plan, such as parking fees, commuter alternatives, park and ride capacity, transit routes, etc.

Students continue to have concerns about various parking and transit related issues. When specific student concerns have arisen, Colin either responded to those concerns directly or referred students to members of the administration who addressed their specific issues. Students were recently invited to participate in a series of ACT-sponsored transportation forums, intended to provide students, faculty, staff, and campus visitors to express their opinions and questions about transit issues on campus. The GPSF helped encourage student participation at these forums and will continue to work with ACT to assure graduate and professional students access to campus. (Appendix K)

B. Centennial Anniversary of the Graduate School

The year 2003 will mark the 100th anniversary of the Graduate School at Carolina. The Graduate School is planning a full year of festivities to commemorate the event. A number of GPSF Cabinet Members and Officers are assisting with preparation for this occasion. One of the GPSF Social Chairs, Jenny McArthur, is assisting GPSF advisor and Associate Dean Mike Poock in planning student social events during the yearlong celebration.
C. Childcare

Childcare Survey

The Chancellor’s Advisory Committee on Childcare (CACC) met several times over the summer. GPSF Cabinet members Carol Lewald and Myra Struckmeyer represented graduate students on the committee. The student referendum on childcare in February 2002 overwhelmingly supported an increase in student fees by 75 cents to provide daycare vouchers for students with childcare needs. The administration enthusiastically supported this effort on the students’ behalf by matching the funds raised by the student fee increase. This special fee received preliminary approval from the Chancellor’s Committee on Student Fees in September 2002. Once the UNC Board of Trustees approves it in the spring, it will be put in place for the 2003-2004 school year.

Student Referendum

Another initiative undertaken by CACC is the development and administration of a survey assessing the state of childcare needs on campus. Currently there exist no means of documenting how many of our students, faculty, and staff need childcare support. However, it is estimated that 1500 graduate students and 2500 undergraduate students at UNC-Chapel Hill have children. Over the summer, a set of questions was developed by the committee in order to formulate the contents of the survey. With the help of Director of the Office of Institutional Research Lynn Williford, the survey will be administered to all UNC-CH students and faculty by the end of November 2002. The results of this effort will be extremely helpful in determining the depth of childcare needs on the UNC campus.

Childcare Drop-Off Center

As part of the campus Master Plan and future development of South Campus, a new building, the Student & Academic Services Building (SASB) will replace Chase Dining Hall on the corner of Manning Drive and Ridge Road. SASB will house many of the services of Student Affairs and will integrate the functions of Academic Affairs under one roof (e.g. Registrar, Academic Advising, Cashier’s Office, etc.).

GPSF President Branson Page served on the planning committee for this building over the summer. The chief architect on the project has been meeting with representatives of each service to be housed in the building in order to develop an appropriate design. GPSF Cabinet Member Colin Christian has served as the graduate student representative on the committee since the beginning of the school year.

One component of SASB will be an hourly drop-off childcare service for students. As of now, there exists no space on campus that fulfills this need. Branson worked with Laurie Charest and Barbara Delon of Human Resources and Interim Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs Dean Bresciani, to develop plans for this service. Much work remains in order to ensure this important facet of SASB is successful.

Playground Parties & Babysitter List

GPSF Childcare Co-Chairs Carol Lewald and Myra Struckmeyer have been very successful this year in planning and putting together three Playground Parties for student parents at UNC. The Playground Parties provide students the opportunity to bring their children together in a social setting while promoting a support network of student parents.

Myra and Carol were also very successful in developing a ‘babysitter list’ with the help of Leslie Bacque from the Office of Human Resources. They set up a table at Fall Fest to sign up undergraduates interested in babysitting opportunities. A list of potential babysitters was distributed among student parents at UNC by Carol and Myra earlier this semester.

D. Future Faculty Program

In April 2002, GPSF President Branson Page and Student Body President Jen Daum approached the Directors of the Center for Teaching and Learning (CTL), Ed Neal and Iola Peed-Neal, with a proposal for a Teaching Assistant training program. With funding from the Office of the Provost, this program was created in summer 2002.

The Future Faculty Program is conducted one week before classes begin in the fall. It is a weeklong session for new Teaching Fellows (TAs that are responsible for independently teaching their own course, developing their syllabus, and writing exams). The program is purely pedagogical in nature and includes instruction from both instructors at CTL and faculty in various departments. Graduate students who complete the program are paid $500. (Appendix I)

Fifteen graduate students from four different departments (Political Science, Religious Studies, Philosophy, and History) took part in this pilot version of the program. Evaluations completed by both participants and administrators were conducted in order to provide evidence for the program’s success and support for provisions of recurrent funding. Many thanks to Provost Robert Shelton, Ed Neal, Iola Peed-Neal, and all faculty and students who participated in the program this year. (Appendix J)

Following CTL’s Advisory Board meeting in November, at which time a discussion of the program will occur, Jen and Branson, with the help of CTL, will develop and submit a proposal for permanent funding of the program.

E. General Alumni Association

The General Alumni Association (GAA) organizes student alumni programs at Carolina. However, there are few opportunities targeted to graduate students from the GAA. GPSF Chief of Staff Emily Williamson and President Branson Page met with GAA President Doug Dibbert and the GAA Manager of the Student Alumni Program Anita Walton to discuss ways that the GAA could have more direct involvement with graduate and professional students. One of the goals of the current GPSF administration is to advocate for a graduate student position on the GAA Board of Directors. If graduates are more involved with the GAA while they are students at UNC, it is more likely they will be active members and contributors to UNC after graduation. GPSF Vice-President for External Affairs Stephanie Schmitt will continue to work with the GAA to develop programs targeted towards graduate and professional students.

F. Graduate Attorney General, Jennifer Burgoon

Since completing the orientation for and a gradual transition into the Graduate Attorney General’s position from Valerie Pruvost in April 2002, Jennifer Burgoon has worked on eight formal complaints/cases. This number includes continuing work on some complaints/cases filed previous to her appointment. The work has involved setting-up and attending meetings, conducting investigations, formal charging, preparation for and attending court dates, and preparing for and attending appeals. Jennifer, in the role of Graduate Attorney General, has also attended GPSF Senate Meetings this school year in an effort to open communication lines between the GPSF and the Graduate Attorney General and her staff.

A graduate honor court training session for graduate and professional students was held on Monday September 30, 2002 from 6:00PM-8:00PM in room 209 of the student union. Four students who were interested in serving as members of the graduate honor court, attended the session and were trained. Additional students interested in serving as graduate honor court members or defense counsels were also identified. These students were unable to attend the training session and will be trained at a later date.

Lastly, as Graduate Attorney General, Jennifer also serves as an Ex Officio Member of the Committee on Student Conduct (COSC). Jennifer has attended COSC meetings since her appointment, in addition to the COSC retreat in September. At this school year’s COSC meetings, she has helped to work on COSC’s interim report to Chancellor James Moeser that discusses steps COCS has taken since he referred the Report of the Chancellor’s Task Force on Student Judicial Processes to COSC for further action.

G. Graduate Student Center

An initiative identified by the Graduate Education Advancement Board (GEAB) of the Graduate School last year was the development of a Graduate Student Center at UNC. A Graduate Student Center would serve to promote interdisciplinary interaction between graduate students in both a social and academic setting. Plans for the center include a lounge area, seminar rooms, and offices for certain graduate organizations. A proposal for the center was made to Provost Robert Shelton by administrators of the Graduate School Arne Kalleberg, Sandra Hoeflich and Mary Anne Ragan, GEAB Chair David McNelis, former Dean Henry Dearman, and GPSF President Branson Page.

The next step in developing plans for the center will be to identify space on campus to house a temporary version of the center until a permanent location can be secured and furnished. (Appendix N)

H. Graduate Student Financial Aid

GPSF City Relations & Local Issues Chair Marc Nelson and Branson Page met with Director of the Office of Scholarships and Financial Aid Shirley Ort and Assistant Director Sue Burdick to discuss the possibility of increasing financial aid to graduate and professional students. Five years ago, a group of UNC medical students were successful in increasing financial aid at Carolina after demonstrating an underestimate in the cost of living and yearly budget for all graduate students. As this assessment and subsequent financial aid increase occurred a few years ago, GPSF felt it was necessary to reexamine levels of financial aid and cost of living in Chapel Hill. Director of the Office of Institutional Research Lynn Williford will work with Marc and the Office of Scholarships and Financial Aid to conduct a needs assessment of graduate students compared to the current financial aid funding status.

I. International Student Support

Since the events of September 11th, 2002, international students studying on our nations’ campuses have been under increased scrutiny. Measures have been put in place by the federal government to increase the security of our borders and gain increased access to the records of international students. While UNC supports the efforts of the federal government, it also fully supports the rights of international students on its campus, the services they provide the university, and the culture of diversity they promote.

Former GPSF Senator Thomas Pegelow, GPSF Cabinet Member Bernard Luscans, and GPSF President Branson Page worked together with Director of the International Center, Bob Locke, University Counsel Susan Ehringhaus, and Associate Vice Chancellor for University Relations Nancy Davis to develop an official statement to promote a safe and secure climate for international students at UNC-Chapel Hill. The statement was presented to Chancellor Moeser and issued to all students, faculty, and staff earlier this semester. In addition, Chancellor Moeser spoke on behalf of international student rights during his September address to the Faculty Council and in his comments at the September 11 memorial on campus.

GPSF International Student Issues Chair Bernard Luscans is working with the UNC International Center to develop a listserv for international students to promote activities and awareness among the international community at UNC. In addition, he will be chairing a GPSF sub-committee for International Student Affairs to bring together international students at UNC to discuss issues relevant to graduate and professional international students.

J. LGBTQ Issues

This summer the Office of the Provost released a Report on the UNC climate as it relates to LGBTQ students. This was the result of a year-long study by that office. The GPSF Senate successfully passed a resolution that supported the Report and its recommendations. (Appendix M)
GPSF LGBT Co-Chairs Yaacov Ben-Shemesh and Jennifer Pender have advocated for the opening of an LGBTQ resource center, which should see its grand opening in the coming weeks. The center is a fundamental first step to improve the LGBTQ campus climate as illustrated by the Provost’s Report. The center will increase the visibility of the LGBTQ community, and it will provide needed services to LGBTQ students and the entire campus community. At the same time, Jennifer and Yaacov have conveyed to the Provost their concerns regarding the fact that the Office was placed under Student Affairs and recommended that another board be given the authority and resources to pursue the academic recommendations of the Report.

Also, Jennifer and Yaacov established the first campus-wide graduate student LGBTQ leadership committee, which meets to discuss issues affecting all LGBTQ graduate students and ways in which these issues can be resolved. They have also established relationships with undergraduate LGBTQ organizations and students at Duke University.

K. Socials

The first GPSF social for this administration occurred last April at Bailey’s Pub and Grill on North Fordham Boulevard. GPSF Treasurer Erin Peterson organized this event in conjunction with Duke graduate and professional students. The event was very successful, and it is likely that a second joint UNC/Duke social will be organized for the spring.

The first GPSF social of the 2002-2003 school year took place during the first week of September. GPSF Social Chairs Salam Bidwan and Will Yeager organized the “Graduate Orientation to Franklin Street.” It was a huge success! Hundreds of graduate and professional students, representing over 30 departments and schools, met at three different locations on Franklin Street and enjoyed an evening of relaxation and fun.

L. Student and Academic Services Building (SASB)

Planning continues for the new Student Academic Services Building (SASB). The University committee helping to develop plans for the SASB has been active in providing feedback on design and access issues, and where various service units should be located within the building. GPSF Student Services Chair Colin Christian represents the GPSF on that committee. Colin has worked hard to promote the proposed drop-off childcare center and its importance to students with children. In addition, he continues to advocate for graduate and professional student resources in SASB.

M. Student Affairs Webpages

GPSF Cabinet member Colin Christian and GPSF President Branson Page have worked consistently with the Office of Student Affairs and Interim Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs Dean Bresciani. Dr. Bresciani has been extremely responsive to our concerns. As a result of conversations regarding the presence of resources for graduate students on the web pages of various departments under Student Affairs and their undergraduate “focus,” Dr. Bresciani announced at the first GPSF Senate meeting that he requested all departments of Student Affairs to audit their websites and include resources for graduate and professional students. This is a significant first step toward more inclusion of graduate student concerns within Student Affairs. We applaud Dean Bresciani’s efforts and appreciate his responsiveness in this endeavor.

N. Teaching Assistant Task Force

Following a discussion between Provost Robert Shelton and GPSF President Branson Page in April regarding the state of Teaching Assistant compensation at UNC, it was decided that a thorough study of the TA salary was in order. This led to the creation of the Teaching Assistant Task Force, which seeks to achieve three goals: understand the current state of TA compensation (including benefits), recommend a fair and just minimum level of compensation for TAs at UNC-Chapel Hill, and to develop a proposal by which the University can afford to achieve this goal. (Appendix G)

The committee began meeting in October under the leadership of Associate Provost Steve Allred. The committee consists of five student representatives, including GPSF President Branson Page and GPSF Cabinet members Tim Diette and George Harper, five faculty members, Assistant Dean of the Graduate School Sandra Hoeflich, and Director of Institutional Research Lynn Williford.

Thus far, one meeting has taken place. It was decided that a survey would be developed and administered to departments to better understand compensation practices across campus. A group of peer institutions with which to compare UNC’s TA compensations will be developed at the next meeting. The committee also plans to address the following issues: cost-of-living, equity in compensation, and the status of discussion leaders and lab assistants. The committee aims to complete its work by the end of the fall semester. (Appendix H)
III. External Advocacy

A. Chapel Hill Town Council

GPSF Cabinet Member Marc Nelson attends Town Council meetings to represent student interests and report back to graduate and professional students the activities of the town. In May 2000, the Town of Chapel Hill adopted a comprehensive plan intended to set a positive course for the municipality’s future. One component of this plan is the Land Use Management Ordinance, which outlines certain restrictions to off-campus housing that would negatively affect students at UNC. Marc attended a September 18th public hearing on the ordinances outlined in the plan and reported on the recommendations. He also has been effective at gauging the community’s response to these ordinances and assisting the GPSF in determining how to respond. With his help, GPSF Vice-President for Internal Affairs Dan Herman composed a letter outlining the students’ position on the ordinances, which will be distributed to all department heads and students for support and signatures. This petition will be presented to Town Council members before the next meeting on October 21st, 2002. (Appendix O)

B. NC Legislature

Overhead Receipts & Tuition Remission

This was an interesting summer in the North Carolina General Assembly. Facing a state budget deficit amounting to 1.5 billion dollars, cuts were necessary across the state at all levels. Although the university prepared for budget cuts as high as 10%, a reduction in resources that great would have crippled the university. With the help of Student Body President Jen Daum and the Carolina Lobby Corps, an effort was put together by students to send a strong message to the legislature.

One potential area where money could have been cut was the university’s Overhead Receipts or Facilities & Administrative Funds (F&A Funds). Within the last five years, the General Assembly has allowed UNC to keep all of its F&A Funds which has resulted in amazing growth and development of its research programs. Members of the legislature looked to these funds as a potential source to fill holes in the budget. However, these funds are an essential resource for graduate and undergraduate research assistants as well as for basic funding of research programs at the university.

GPSF Cabinet Members Tim Diette and George Harper were very helpful in bringing about a positive student voice on this issue. They worked with Vice Chancellor for Research and Graduate Studies Tony Waldrop to develop talking points and to learn how reductions in these funds would affect graduate students at Carolina. They also communicated with graduate students in a number of departments to discover how their research benefits UNC and the state of North Carolina. This information was useful in lobbying the legislature.

The budget passed by the NC Senate in June was favorable to UNC. When the NC House began to debate its version of the budget, cuts were included that were not anticipated. The initial version of the budget included a decrease in funding for Tuition Remission by 5.2 million dollars. Tuition Remission funds out-of-state graduate teaching assistants and research assistants by bringing the cost of their out-of-state tuition down to the in-state level. (Appendix D) The Tuition Remission funding totals thirty million dollars across the UNC system. During the House debate, an amendment was proposed to decrease funding of Tuition Remission by 30 million, extinguishing the program. GPSF President Branson Page met with Representative Barnhart, author of the amendment, and expressed support for the University’s use of Tuition Remission. The amendment did not pass thanks to the support of Graduate School Dean Linda Dykstra, members of the UNC General Administration, and NC Representative Verla Insko. (Appendix E)

The final weeks of deliberation by the Legislative Conference Committee were crucial in determining the types of cuts UNC would endure. Student Body President Jen Daum’s cabinet was very effective in communicating with members of the conference committee. (Appendix C) The GPSF sent letters to every member of the conference committee arguing against cuts in tuition remission. Due to aggressive lobbying by the UNC Administration and students, the final budget passed by the legislature did not include any cuts to our overhead receipts or tuition remission. (Appendix F)
IV. Internal Initiatives

A. GPSF Senate
GPSF Vice President for Internal Affairs - Dan Herman

The GPSF Senate is off to an excellent start in 2002-2003. The GPSF Senate set many goals for 2002-2003 and is underway in accomplishing them.

One of the goals set by Vice President for Internal Affairs Dan Herman was to increase graduate and professional student representation in GPSF Senate. GPSF Senate represents over 70 degree-granting programs. Average representation has been roughly 20-30% in the past. Dan set a fall-term goal of 50 represented programs at the GPSF Cabinet Retreat. GPSF has surpassed its goal, boasting 57 Senators representing 47 different degree-granting programs.

Dan also set a goal to increase communication within the Senate and between the Senate and the Executive Committee. This has been accomplished through the Senate listserv, serving GPSF Senate, Cabinet, and Executive members.

GPSF Senate has been active this fall in drafting and debating legislation. Having only met twice, the Senate has already considered and passed many resolutions: including a resolution to support Academic Freedom in regard to the events surrounding the Summer Reading Program controversy; a resolution in support of the Provost's Planning Committee on the LGBTQ Climate at UNC; and numerous bills appropriating student activity fees to graduate and professional organizations. (Appendices P & Q)

Lastly, in an effort to increase continuity between Senates from year to year, Dan created a Senate Directory/Database, which contains contact information, departmental student government structure, and other information to help ensure smooth transitions between successive Senates and Executive Committees. The Senate Directory/Database is an ongoing project, the upkeep of which will be the responsibility of future GPSF Vice Presidents. The Database creates a valuable resource for future GPSF functioning.
B. External Appointments
GPSF Vice President for External Affairs - Stephanie Schmitt

One of the main jobs of the Vice President for External Affairs is to appoint graduate and professional students to campus-wide committees and task forces. Stephanie serves as the contact person for University Boards, Advisory Committees, and Standing Committees. She also personally represents graduate and professional students on the Administrative Board of the Graduate School standing committee.

Information about all of the campus-wide committees has been gathered and compiled in a database for future use. Information gathered about each committee includes: reporting structures, administrative contacts, chairperson names and contact information, and notes about the committee responsibilities, scope of work and frequency of meetings. Sixty committees have been researched.

To date, almost all of the committee appointments have been made. There are 71 graduate and professional student seats filled, with two outstanding seats. The two outstanding openings are on committees with more than one graduate seat, thus the GPSF has representation on all university committees (of which we have knowledge.) The GPSF is involved in committees and issues surrounding almost all aspects of student services and campus life, including: career services, public service, women's issues, transportation, food services, student affairs, libraries, tuition, teaching awards, and various advisory boards.

A database of graduate and professional students interested in serving on committees has also been compiled. When university administrators or staff require graduate and professional student input on issues on an ad hoc basis, the GPSF can quickly find interested students to serve.

C. Treasurer’s Report
GPSF Treasurer – Erin Peterson

The Treasurer of the GPSF currently serves on the following committees:
Student Fee Audit Committee (voting member)
Chancellor’s Committee on Student Fees (voting member)
GPSF Senate Appropriations Committee (ex officio member)
GPSF Senate Finance Committee (ex officio member)
The Senate elected the Appropriations Committee, which consists of the following senators:
Sen. Kate Edwards
Sen. Biljana Belamaric-Wilsey
Sen. Martha Waller (chair)
Sen. Michael Spinks
Sen. John Bakken

All meeting dates are set for the year 2002, and the group has already begun allocating monies to worthy organizations.

The Senate also elected the Finance Committee, which consists of the following senators:
Sen. Renee Johnson
Sen. Bonnie Dahlke
Sen. Mark Bondo
Sen. Randall Kimple (chair)
Sen. Darci Powell

The Finance committee has met once, and has suggested that the Senate fund a one time expenditure of the interest on our SAFO account (also known as part of the UNC Investment Pool) in the amount of $1,500 to the Blue Ribbon Mentor-Advocate Tutoring Program to fund the purchase of supplies, training for the tutors, an awards ceremony and a trips for the participating students and their tutors. In addition, the Finance Committee approved a one time expenditure of $2,500 to purchase office furniture for the new GPSF office space.

The Treasurer plans to attend the annual NAGPS meeting in St. Louis on November 6-11th in order to network with other treasurers and learn about relevant monetary issues and trends in the larger graduate community.

D. GPSF Cabinet

Sixteen students were selected to make up the Cabinet of GPSF. A retreat was held for members of cabinet and executive officers in August at the home of Interim Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs Dean Bresciani. A list of priorities for the year was developed. So far, the GPSF cabinet has been extremely active on campus in advocating for students on a variety of issues.
E. Student Congress

The GPSF is well represented within Student Congress. Both GPSF Treasurer Erin Peterson and Internal Vice-President Dan Herman represent their respective districts as members of Congress. GPSF President Branson Page has made reports to Congress regarding the activities of the GPSF and issues relevant to graduate students. Speaker of Student Congress Tony Larson and Dan Herman worked hard to promote Congress during the fall special elections at which almost all vacant graduate student seats were filled. The GPSF also secured graduate representation on the Fall Forum of Student Congress. In addition, Branson and GPSF Chief of Staff Emily Williamson have worked with Tony Larson and Congress member Cary Richter to determine ways to make Congress more responsive to graduate student members.

F. GPSF Web Page

GPSF Cabinet Member Andre Burton is webmaster for the 2002-2003 school year. Over the course of the summer, Andre met with several members of GPSF to discuss alternatives for presentation of the GPSF website as well as ways to make it more informative and useful for graduate students at UNC. A new and improved version of the website will be available for use soon.

The GPSF developed a listserv a few years ago to provide information about available housing and rental opportunities in the area. The current GPSF administration felt this was not the most efficient way to provide such information to the graduate and professional student community. A web forum was developed to be hosted on the GPSF website for students interested in posting information about housing opportunities. This format allows posts made to the site to remain available for an unlimited amount of time and alerts members of new postings every day via a special email.

Another forum was also developed to provide general discussion of topics of interest to graduate and professional students at UNC. This forum will also be hosted on the new GPSF website.